The new drummer uses
brushes- they tickle.

Bass:

I keep trying to help
him out with my walking notes on the beat.

Microphone (Robbie):

I love the singer- her voice is like velvet.

Trombone:

It's my turn next - we are doing that awesome song with all the brass hits. Bop. Bop. Bop.

Maracas:

I can't wait for the latin piece where I get to shake, shake, shake!

Accordion:

My guy keeps
squeezing me too tight,
I can hardly breathe.

Keyboard (Marsche):

You know we could practice that song we started writing the other day.

Bass:

Great idea! Hey Mic - do you remember the words?

Microphone (Robbie):

I sure do!

Maracas:

Hey drums, start us off!

Drums:

You got it...1...2...and 1, 2, 3, 4

Song:

Life is sweet (*slow sway
back and fourth*)

When you got a beat

Making music (play your instrument)

All day.

Song:

Life is fine (*slow sway back

With you by my side
And a song to sing (play your instrument)

All day.

Song:

Outside where the sun shines bright.

Outside where the breeze feels so right.

When you got a beat

Making music (*play your

Life is best (slow sway back and forth)

With notes and...rests. (stop on the rest in the center of the screen)

Rocking on. (play your instrument)
All day.

Outside where the sun shines bright.

(one arm raises from the center of the body and opens up to one side)

All day.

With you by my side

And a song to sing (play your instrument)

All day.

All day.

Tambourine:

Hey guys, we sounded better than the musicians that play us.

Keyboard (Marsche):

Yes, we are able to stay in the same key!

Saxophone:

Maybe we should take
ourselves on the road!

Saxophone (Ryan):

Maybe we should take
ourselves on the road!

Accordion:

Accordion to the crowd,
we should keep the vocalist!

Harmonica:

I agree, she is the best
out of all of the musicians here.

Electric guitar:

I love when she dances
to my rocking solos!

Tambourine:

Whoa - guys, the musicians are back and the crowd is gathering around to listen.

Flute:

Let's hope the next set
of songs is better than the opening performance!
